Engaging New Audiences in Peacebuilding

Grounded in USIP's original mandate from Congress, Public Education at USIP serves the American people, providing resources and initiatives for K-12 students and educators, as well as others interested in learning about and working for peace. In this section, you will find resources on core concepts in conflict management, and initiatives that bring peacebuilding to life.

FOR STUDENTS

USIP works with young people so that they understand how conflicts are resolved, peace is achieved and how they can make a difference. In this section, find resources for young peacebuilders, information on contests for students, materials to start a Peace Club and more.
